Each philosophy curriculum includes a PowerPoint package as its cornerstone, and each is divided into three parts with supplemental readings, discussion prompts, and video elements embedded into the package. Presenters are encouraged to personalize the content to introduce their own examples of mentors and leadership experiences, and if appropriate, add slides with current events/discussion points as appropriate to the audience.
  - Part I is an introductory section focused on an overview of the philosophy, value statements and quotes from Superintendent Doc Buchanan along with an approximately 8-minute-long video featuring interviews with former and current leaders about the origin of the philosophy in our district's history and its implementation over time. Discussion prompts (typically broken into 101/201/301 levels to be selected based on the leadership experience level of participants) are provided as well as graphic organizers for use with video content.
  - Part II dives deeper into the practical implementation of the value statements and Doc Buchanan quote. Part II may include additional short videos, readings, and discussion prompts.
  - Part III takes a step outside of our organization and introduces third party organizational theorists speaking to the value and purpose of a particular leadership philosophy of Clovis Unified. Section III provides a book resource that can also be used by leaders as a team-wide book study.
